

Recent Studies on Wayside Environmental Problems

Kiyoshi NAGAKURA

Environmental problems along waysides caused by passing trains include the following: noise, ground vibration, micro-pressure waves radiating from tunnel portals, etc. It is necessary to mitigate the impacts of these phenomena aiming at environment-friendly railways. This paper describes the outlines of recent studies on them made by Railway Technical Research Institute.